Jonathan Church, Former Worcester Regional Transportation Authority Administrator Joins McMahon Associates, Inc. to Expand Firm's Transit Practice

FORT WASHINGTON, PA, August 13, 2018 – McMahon Associates, Inc., a transportation engineering and planning firm, is pleased to announce that Jonathan Church, AICP, and former Administrator of the Worcester Regional Transit Authority (WRTA), has joined the firm to further expand the depth of our transit practice. With more than 17 years of experience in transportation and land-use planning, and nearly a decade of management and administrative experience, Jonathan will add industry knowledge and strategies to McMahon's already successful team of transit planners and designers.

Prior to his time at the WRTA, Jonathan spent 10 years at the Central Massachusetts Regional Planning Commission, rising to Transportation Project Manager of the Transit Group. He is a graduate of the Eno Center for Transportation's 2017 Transit Senior Executive Program (TSEP) and was the American Public Transit Foundation's 2017 Frank J. Lichtanski Scholarship Recipient. Jonathan is also a member of the American Institute of Certified Planners, and received the Distinguished Service Award from the American Planning Association – Massachusetts Chapter in 2012.

McMahon's major, recent transit projects include: Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority (MBTA) Bus Stop Accessibility Improvements and Green Line Extension (GLX) projects, development of the Rhode Island Bus Stop Design Guide, the Rhode Island Public Transit Authority (RIPTA)'s Providence Downtown Transit Connector and Pawtucket Bus Hub and Transit Emphasis Corridor, Portland Area Comprehensive Transportation System (PACTS) Transit Stop Access Project, and the South Central Transit Authority (SCTA) Transit Development Plan.

"It is exciting to see our transit sector taking off and attracting high caliber candidates like Jonathan," said Gary R. McNaughton, P.E., PTOE and Executive Vice President of McMahon Associates, Inc. "Our transit project base has been growing exponentially over the last several years, particularly in New England, and I view Jonathan's addition to our project team bench as a major milestone for this segment of our business. There is no doubt Jonathan will help us continue to grow our transit opportunities in the near future."
